MOMentum By Visual MED

Enhance your patient's practice experience.

Since the invention of ultrasound, expectant moms have been getting the first pictures of their new baby on little black and white thermal prints. The thermal print is 40 year old technology that starts to loose its quality as soon as it is removed from the printer. The thermal print is hard to scan and is hard to share with the important people in the lives of your patients.

MOMentum allows the OBGYN practice to send the 'all important first images' of your expectant mom's baby, digitally and securely, to their mobile device or computer.
The app allows you to help your expectant moms share this wonderful and important time in their life with their friends and family, from the convenience of their smart phone. Their ultrasound images are anonymized and digital and they arrive in full quality.

The MOMenutm app eliminates your need for thermal prints and a thermal printer.

You can even include your practice logo with the images. Great free marketing.

With the app, you can text or email your expectant moms their images. Enhancing their practice experience.
Once they have their images on their phones they can download their images in full resolution and in perfect quality.
From their smartphone's apps they can annotate their images and Instantly share their images with the important people in their life using their favorite social media.
